Pronunciation in Context

Ensuring people understand you is the most important part of learning any language and, perhaps, the most difficult. Replicating the sounds of English often means learning new ways of using your facial muscles, breathing, and your voice.

WHY STUDY PRONUNCIATION IN CONTEXT?

- Exclusive ClearSpeak Method © designed by a speech pathologist and incorporated into the course by a Greenwich English College teacher
- ClearSpeak Method © uses hearing, sight and touch in practical exercises, using catchy memorable words for sounds
- Learn techniques for accent and native language reduction, and gain confidence in natural speech through role plays and group work
- Build personal confidence through weekly presentations, and develop with the support of personalised feedback
- Improve your listening skills for a better understanding of native speakers and the environment you are living in
- Before you learn how to speak, you'll need to learn how to listen. Only after recognising sounds, your brain and your facial muscles will allow you to produce those sounds

ENTRY REQUIREMENTS

Suits Pre Intermediate students (IELTS 4.5) to Intermediate students (IELTS 5.0) or equivalent in the Greenwich English College General English Test (available at the College or online).

OUTCOMES

-  Understand native and non-native speakers
-  Gain the confidence to use English outside the classroom
-  Improve your pitch, intonation and stress to make you better understood
-  Eliminate fossilised pronunciation errors and reduce interference of your accent

Learn more about Pronunciation in Context:  greenwichcollege.edu.au

What I enjoy most in my course is speaking with my friends. It is very fun and I enjoy very much. The most unforgettable lesson is the IPA - International Phonetic Alphabet, which we learn specific sounds and it's really important to improve and for those who are learning English. So we can know how a native person speaks. Greenwich is the best English college in the world because we have good classmates, good teachers and an atmosphere to study English. If you are interested to learn English I recommend you come here and I'm sure you won't regret it.

Studying Cambridge English at Greenwich is a great opportunity to learn English, but also to learn about life. The most important thing for me about the course is the teacher. He is really supportive and teaches us English in different ways, not just in class. He helps us to improve our English in external situations. I have the opportunity to learn a lot of different cultures and how my friends live in their countries. The location is perfect because you can find a business centre close to here, different parks, a lot of different restaurants. You can find a lot of different foods, like Korean, Mexican and Indian food.

I have experienced great IELTS teachers and my improvement was remarkable. My classes are really interesting and I am very happy with my exam preparation. Greenwich College is in a great location, with a lot of buses and train stations around the area. There are many things to do around the area, and there is a convenient shopping mall just across the street with a medical centre that my medical insurance covers the cost. The campus is close to Hyde Park, where we go to have lunch.

During our class of English for Business, I learn about business in different cultures - we need to be careful with some words, body expressions and behaviours because they can have different meanings in other countries. I have friends from all around the world and we learn a lot about other cultures; Chinese, Korean, South American and European. We do a lot of presentations like in a real life and we can use our ideas, and I'm always impressed at how many ideas we all have together.
